R&D&I RENDEZVOUS for co-creating roadmaps for research proposals and plans

This rendezvous provides an outstanding opportunity to discuss and develop your research proposals and plans with other researchers, leading academics in the field of Business Studies, and practitioners. This is a networking session aimed at mapping new fundable research topics and bringing together the potential collaborators and future partners worldwide. Please prepare an extended abstract on your suggestion for the possible collaborative R&D&I activities and get ready to pitch the idea to the audience of this session. Each proposal is given 10 minutes presentation time followed by a Questions & Answers session. This Rendezvous ends with a general mingling of 30-60 minutes to boost the cross-fertilisation of ideas and liaising.

Your submitted abstract for this rendezvous will be published online at www.combi2010.fi prior to the Conference in order to attract potential interest groups and stakeholders to attend and meet with you in person. You yourself may also invite additional participants free-of-charge to join with you in this session (for this session only) in the spirit of networking. Perhaps there are some stakeholders you would like to invite to listen to your R&D&I proposal or who you would like to meet in person but simply haven't had the opportunity before. Depending on the number of submitted research proposals, the Organising Committee may cluster participants in advance under categories of mutual interests.

GOT INTERESTED?

ONLINE submission opens at www.combi2010.fi on 4 January 2010 and closes on 31 March 2010

In order to be considered as a presenter for the above mentioned session, please submit online an extended abstract of 10 000 characters in length at a minimum. Upon acceptance, at least one author is obligated to register for the Conference, pay the attendance fee by due date and at least one party involved in the research plan must appear at the Conference to present the submission.
